Research survey

Your work with Uber

This survey asks how the Uber app manages your work and how changes to Uber's rules would affect you. It takes about 36 minutes.

Before you start

- There are no right or wrong answers.
- You can skip any question or stop at any time.
- Your answers are anonymous. This research is not run by Uber.

About this research

This research studies how people who drive with Uber in India experience algorithmic management, the software mediated decisions on trip matching, trip allocation, pay, and control that the Uber app makes in place of human supervisors. The research has three objectives:

- To describe how Uber drivers perceive algorithmic control, algorithmic fairness, and transparency on Uber.
- To identify combinations of Uber redesign choices that would reduce driver resistance and turnover, and improve driver voice.
- To generate evidence that Uber, its product management teams, and regulators can use to redesign algorithmic management, prioritise app features, and design worker protection instruments.

Your participation contributes to the third objective. The survey takes approximately 36 minutes to complete, including short questions answered in your own words, one short scenario, and six short ratings of possible changes to Uber. Participation is voluntary. You may skip any question or withdraw at any time without giving a reason. Your responses will be anonymised, aggregated with those of other participants, and reported only in composite form. No individual worker will be identifiable in any output from this research.

Your rights

You have the right to be informed about (a) the purpose of this research, (b) the identity of the principal investigator, (c) how your data will be used, (d) how long your data will be stored, and (e) how you can withdraw. All five points are set out on this sheet before you are asked to consent.

Your responses will be anonymised at the point of data entry. No identifier (name, phone number, platform username, vehicle number, or account number) will be linked to your responses in any research output. Data will be stored on encrypted media accessible only to the principal investigator and the appointed research team. Findings will be reported only in aggregate form. No individual worker will be identifiable in any thesis, paper, presentation, or other output that arises from this research.

Your data will be used only for academic research on algorithmic management of gig workers, as set out in the three objectives in Section I. Data will not be sold, shared with your platform, shared with any commercial third party, or used for marketing. Data will be retained in encrypted form for five years from the date of collection. At the end of the five year period the primary dataset will be destroyed, and only summary statistics will remain in the archived thesis.

You may withdraw at any time during the survey by closing the browser or by asking the interviewer to stop. No reason is required, and no partial responses will be retained. After completing the survey, you may withdraw your responses within 14 days by writing to the principal investigator at the address below. To withdraw, quote your response reference number (issued at the end of the survey) and state that you wish to withdraw.

After 14 days your responses will have been anonymised and merged into the aggregate dataset, at which point they can no longer be identified for individual withdrawal. The aggregate data continues to be used as described above.

PART 10 — SIX VERSIONS

Version 1 of 6

This version of Uber

Pay:
From next month Uber guarantees that, after fuel and other work costs, you earn at least the local minimum wage for every active hour, including waiting time, and it pays on time and in full.

Conditions:
Uber now provides safety equipment and training free of charge, supports you when you work alone, and covers significant costs from work related accidents or illness. Uber also takes steps towards your social protection process, your standing if you cannot work for a long period, and no longer pays more for taking risks.

Contracts:
Your terms are now written in full in clear language, always available in the app, name the company you contract with, and include a data protection policy. Uber now warns you before terms change, removes unfair liability clauses, and explains in clear language the data and calculations it uses for pricing, bonuses, ratings, and job allocation.

Management:

You can now reach a human representative and appeal low ratings, payment issues, and deactivations, even after deactivation, with no penalty for raising concerns. Uber now enforces an anti-discrimination policy, removes barriers for independent groups, and checks that its allocation and pay algorithms treat every driver equally.

Conditions:
Uber now provides safety equipment and training free of charge, supports you when you work alone, and covers significant costs from work related accidents or illness. Uber also takes steps towards your social protection, protects your standing if you cannot work for a long period, and no longer pays more for taking risks.

Contracts:
Your terms are now written in full in clear language, always available in the app, name the company you contract with, and include a data protection policy. Uber now warns you before terms change, removes unfair liability clauses, and explains in clear language the data and calculations it uses for pricing, bonuses, ratings, and job allocation.

Management:
You can now reach a human representative and appeal low ratings, payment issues, and deactivations, even after deactivation, with no penalty for raising concerns.

Representation:
Uber now runs a documented forum where all workers can raise shared concerns, and it states in writing that it will recognise and bargain with an independent workers' body.
